Summary of reasons for decision:

The short film has been made as part of the 'Someday Challenge', a compilation of short films about sustainability made by primary and secondary school students to highlight topical social issues such as mental illness, bullying and suicide. This film deals with cancer. The treatment of this subject is intended to be educational and reflect an important issue through eyes and voices of New Zealand children and young teenagers. While the film's unrestricted availability is unlikely to cause injury to the public good, parental guidance is recommended to give context for very young viewers. Classifying this film as unrestricted does not impede the right to freedom of expression contained in the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990.
